LOCAL BREVITIES.

The drought is broken.

The frost is on the pumpkin-vine.

The Fontanas were a flash in the pan. Delayed communications will appear next week.

It is rumored that Arcadia is to have a new station house.

The invitations for the K. P. Masque Ball will be issued this week.

Thanksgiving dinner services were well and numerously attended.

The Ironton station house was painted outside and inside last week.

Two dead engines, and several cars of wreckage passed up the road Monday last.

Regular meeting of Star of the West Lodge, No. 133, A. F. & A. M., Saturday evening this week.

The President's message was given to Congress Monday and will be printed in the REGISTER next week.

The darkest day in Ironton's history was last Saturday. All day long those who needed better light in their work consumed the erstwhile midnight oil.

We are informed that a party is looking up some valuable mining properties in Iron and Madison counties with a view of developing same in the near future.

Dandruff is due to an unfeeling state of the skin. Hall's Hair Renewer quickens the nutritive functions of the skin, healing and preventing the formation of dandruff.

County Court is in session at regular term, Judges Hill and Hart transacting the business. We regret to have to state that ill health prevents Judge Holloman's attendance.

We are informed that some prospecting is being done on land near the Silver Mountain mine in Madison county. The discovery of rich copper and other ores was made some time ago.

On Friday night, the 7th inst., a box-supper will be given for the benefit of Saint's Delight Church, near the Fisher schoolhouse, two and a half miles east of Ironton. All are invited to attend.

The Clark work wagon is about completed. If you wish to see a good piece of workmanship in this town, go up to the Ironton House Hall. It was built by the Gay Co., of this city, and painted by Pruitt & Madigan.

Just one year ago yesterday morning fire devastated the most closely built block in this town—and still the debris remains undisturbed. Let us hope for better times to close the unsightly gap that marks the disaster.

Last Saturday two freight trains ran together near Sabula, and a fine smash-up of the engines resulted. Fortunately no one was hurt, the engineers and firemen having sought safety in jumping as soon as they became aware of the condition of things.

The Fontanas' advance agent came here last week, advertised, and went away. The company was to follow and show Tuesday night; and some neat photo-lithographs of a pretty woman in various costumes are hanging in various public places to indicate what might have been.

The members of the bereaved family desire us to return their heartfelt thanks to the many kind friends and neighbors who assisted them during the long sickness and after the death of the late Peter Kiddle. The many acts of kindness rendered the afflicted ones will never be forgotten while memory lasts.

The Waters Pierce Oil Company is putting in an iron tank just north of the station house. It will be a great improvement over barrels heretofore stored in the wooden building used as an oil house; much safer to adjacent property and more sightly, too. The tank will have a capacity of about seventy-five barrels.

The entertainment given by the Ironton Public School at the Academy of Music last Monday evening was well attended. The rendition of the programme was a credit to the conductors and the pupils, and the audience frequently attested its approval. The net receipts—to be devoted to the library—were $16.10.

Thomas Johnson of Berryman, Mo., was before Commissioner Fox on the 24th inst., charged with retailing intoxicating liquors without having first obtained a license from the Government. Neither party being ready, the defendant entered a plea of "not guilty," and was bound over to appear before the Commissioner December 3d. The cause, we learn, has since been continued to December 10th.

A brakeman named Brown was burned to a cinder in a caboose at Bismarck last Thursday morning about 3 o'clock. He had retired into the caboose at midnight, locking the door after him, and was no doubt asleep when the car took fire, and it was all ablaze when they outside first observed it. His body was burned beyond recognition—in fact, only the ashes remained when the car fell in and gave his friends an opportunity to examine the debris.

The earth trembled last Saturday evening about seven o'clock in response to very heavy thunder and lightning. One detonation caused houses to rock, and many people believed the storm was accompanied with an earthquake. A gentleman from the country says he was looking out through a window when the loudest explosion occurred, and he saw in the northwest a huge ball of fire which flew into fragments as it approached the horizon. That day and the day preceding there fell about three and one-half inches of water.

The new fast mail train went through on time Sunday morning, putting off at this place over two hundred pounds of mail matter. The St. Louis morning papers were delivered at once, and many a citizen ate his breakfast and read his favorite daily together, taking in the news from the four quarters of the globe up to the preceding midnight. It is a "big thing" for us of the interior, and greatly lessens the labors of the postmaster at later hours of the day.

Services at the Presbyterian church next Sabbath at 10:30 A. M. and 7 P. M. At Graniteville 3 P. M. Business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. The Ladies Society will meet at Mrs. Hill's Thursday 2:30 P. M. to complete "quilt." The subjects of the various services will be announced at the time of service. The gentlemen of the town are especially invited to the Sabbath services. If you believe the bible, employ its benefits.

GEO. H. DUTY, Pastor.

The following item of local interest appeared in the St. Louis Chronicle last Friday: "Shade Sweeney and his father, Henry, farmers from Bellevue, Iron county, visited Mamie White's, 602 Elm, at 2 A. M. The boy hid $350 he had in a purse in the sleeve of his shirt. About an hour later he missed it. Sgt. Mansfield raided the house, arresting the keeper and seven inmates. There are no later advices, to our knowledge, and we therefore presume the $350 is gone forever—gone glimmering from the despondent to-day, with naught but the lesson it teaches left behind to mark its flight. That lesson demonstrates that a sugar-barrel is safer with an industrious honey-bee than is a man's 'good cash money' in certain places at 2 o'clock in the morning. And rightly so, for he who dances must not begrudge the pay of the piper.

The attorneys who attended the Reynolds county circuit court report a fairly good docket and a thriving litigation. That industry seems to flourish over there, as the docket of Commissioner Fox bears witness. The case of Piles, the defaulting Collector, against A. J. Newton, a former Collector, was tried, judgment going against Newton for two hundred dollars. The case of the State against Parks for rape was disposed of by the defendant pleading guilty and a fine of ten dollars being assessed against him, and a sentence of one day in jail, which the court remarked was "not to be constructive imprisonment." Accordingly, Mr. Parks sojourned with Sheriff Fisher for twenty-four hours. The case of Shriver against the bondsmen of R. Piles, a former Collector, presented some very knotty questions to the court, but was settled by the jury in about five minutes, with a verdict for defendants. The weather was fine during court, until the last day, when it rained and rained, as usual, and the attorneys who stayed there until the conclusion, were well ducked on their homeward trip, as usual.

Bro. Flynn of the De Soto Gazette, we fear, is not fully justified in all that he so kindly says of the REGISTER in his write-up of Ironton and its vicinity; but we make due acknowledgment, and accept the compliment in the spirit in which it is so neatly given. He discourses as follows: "In our estimation the IRON COUNTY REGISTER is the most interesting and reliable institution of Iron County. The growth and magnitude of the other enterprises are merely proportionate to local demands whereas the REGISTER has towered like a giant above its surroundings and has made its influence felt to the remotest corners of Southeast Missouri. For many years, too, its office has practically monopolized the contracts for fine job work in this portion of the State. There is no other printing office south of St. Louis that can compete with it in this respect. Though it may be equaled in point of improved machinery by one or two other offices, it has no rival in the quantity and variety of its type and other appliances, or in its extensive assortment of excellent paper stock. Besides it has one of the greatest job printing establishments in the person of its proprietor and editor, Mr. E. D. Ake. To Mr. Ake alone, is due the credit of having made the REGISTER the most comprehensive newspaper in Southeast Missouri. In 1865, when he was a young man and probably a poor one, he started the first paper in Ironton, the FORGE. This he sold during the following year and its name was changed to the Southwestern Missouri Enterprise, which continued in publication till 1873. In 1866 a Democratic weekly, the BEECHER, was started, the name of which was changed in July, 1867, to the IRON COUNTY REGISTER. In May, 1869, the REGISTER was purchased by E. D. Ake and C. K. Miller and two years later Mr. Ake became its sole proprietor. Such is a brief outline of the beginning of a publication which has since grown to be a living monument to the industry, intelligence and indefatigable energy of one man, a Southeast Missouri editor and printer."

We have a friend living not far from Ironton who has a collection of curios to his library, and amongst them an old army musket and bayonet on it. A few days ago he discovered some spots of rust, and took it down into the kitchen to clean and oil it. He was alone, and put on an old felt hat that lopped over his face somewhat, and an old coat. He got spots of rust and grease on his face in the operation so that he looked about as desperate and fierce as a guerilla or a Comanche Indian. At this stage, while rubbing away at his gun, (which was six or seven feet long) there was an earnest rap at the door. Holding the gun in his left hand he opened the door quickly with the other; the quick movement toward the door, and the butt of the gun striking a chair, had the effect to thrust the old musket and bayonet out of the door as it opened; and who should be meekly waiting a welcome there but a very dirty and ragged tramp! Now, this was a most unlooked for reception, and the poor tramp's eyes had hardly bulged out of his head more than an inch or two when he uttered a cry of terror, jumped the grass, got up and ran like a Turk, making blue streak until he was out of sight! The calls to "come back, came back," only made him fly the faster, clearing a high paling fence with a bound! The poor tramp has not since been seen in the country. As the tramp ran off, our friend thought he would run around the house the other way and see what became of him. Now, there was an apple tree around there and some small boys happened to stroll there just then looking for any stray apples that might be going to waste for want of attention, and our friend, all unconscious of being on the war path, rushed around the corner with his old musket and bayonet, in the midst of the boys! Now, to see their hitherto gracious and complacent friend, so suddenly appear in their midst, all begrimed, with a torn coat, musket and bayonet, was a frightful and portentous event, too ominous of impending disaster to be considered or taken under advisement. In fact, they did not think it required any explanation and they had no time to make any apology, and so there was no waiting on the order of their going! They went! They flew! Calls to "hold on boys, come back," only gave wings to their feet! One little fellow, in throwing himself over a paling fence, tore his pants off, but he held on to them with his hand and disappeared! Afterwards, to the question why he ran so, little Willie replied, "Jimminy, though! You think I wanted to get poked with that shin! I speared on the end of that big gun? They stick into men in war time! You bet I ran!"

Gregory—Blanton.

Married, at the residence of the residence of the bride's father, the Blanton place, Flatwoods, Iron county, P. M. Gregory, of Fredericktown, Mo., to Miss Leatrice Blanton, on Thursday, Thanksgiving day, 1894, by Rev. W. F. Harmann, of St. Louis, Mo. Only a few of the young friends of the bride and groom were present, except the members of their own family. The bride and groom were dressed in nice, rich materials, with no shoddy, and the dinner that followed the ceremony was such as the Blanton family justly can know how to get up; everything in and abundance. Talk about tables groaning; this could not groan, for it was too heavily laden. May long life and happiness follow them all their days! A FRIEND.

Arcadia News.

The band boys drove through Arcadia Thursday.

Mrs. Jas. Austin gave a dinner Thanksgiving.

Miss Maud Fletcher was home to spend Thanksgiving.

Mr. Jas. Evans is making extensive improvements around his home.

Mrs. Muse, of Harvill, spent last week with her daughter, Mrs. Mangold.

Miss Ringo's pupils had speaking, dialogues, etc., Wednesday afternoon. They did well.

A "great many" of our young people attended the Thanksgiving hop at Mr. Adolph's.

Miss Leah O'Brien walks over to Ironton twice a day, before and after school, to reside to Prof. Hamilton.

Mrs. Day came up from Piedmont Saturday afternoon, to visit her son, Mr. Ed. Baird.

What is all this we hear about so many weddings? We hope that none of our old maids will catch the fever.

Mrs. Hiney of De Soto, and Mrs. Gregory of Hogan, are the guests of their father, Judge Holloman.

Mr. Gratiot and wife took Thanksgiving dinner with their daughter, Mrs. Andrew H. Baird.

Mr. Rockwell and wife were called to Marble Hill Thursday, on account of the death of Mrs. Rockwell's sister.

What has become of the "canning factory" people?

Why doesn't some one buy that fallen-down house that occupies the beautiful lot between Mr. Ringo's and Keyburn's.

JEROME.

Personal.

Dr. Blanks of Marquand is visiting friends in Ironton.

Jake Lopez went to St. Louis Tuesday.

Mr. Ferd Schmitz and family of De Soto are visiting friends and relatives in this city.

Howard Lindsay of St. Louis is the guest of Hugh Bradley.

Mrs. Lizzie Power and Messrs. F. W. and P. F. Kiddle were in Ironton several days during the past week, being called here to attend the funeral of their father, Peter Kiddle.

Miss Kate Taylor having visited her grandparents in Potosi, returned home Monday night.

Miss Alma Jaquith has returned from a several months' visit to Ashland, Wis.

Miss Anna Kendall returned from St. Louis last night.

Mr. Archie Reel of St. Louis paid a visit to his parents last week.

Mrs. Mollie Ake has returned from a visit to friends in Piedmont.

A. J. Zwart was in the Valley last Sunday—and saw his best girl.

Graniteville News.

Ed. Register.—The M. E. Church looks fine with its new carpet.

Peter Hartman and Jack Kerwin, while out hunting one day last week, accidentally shot and killed a turkey, and just in time for Thanksgiving, too.

Last Sunday some young folks from Graniteville went riding, intending to go to Iron Mountain and around by Schneiders, but they got lost and went to Bismarck.

The school is moving along nicely in both departments.

Aug. Riecke is kept busy now between the times of carrying the mail and hauling leaves.

Rev. Russell of Bellevue is to preach in the M. E. Church to-morrow night.

Johnie Burks is back from Denver, Colo., where he has been for some time.

Mrs. L. Kerchner and daughter, Mrs. Collier, spent Thanksgiving in Bismarck.

Dec. 1. PADDY.

We have had a good rain at last and the ground is deeply penetrated. The ground was extremely dry and we had not had a real good rain since last spring.

A Thanksgiving's dinner was indulged in by several of our people at their homes, and every one who could procure a turkey ate of this most delicious food.

Messrs. John Kerwin, Tony Snodgrass and Andrew Orrick were so fortunate as to kill a wild turkey for Thanksgiving.

The Syntite Granite Company has another small job. It is hoped that they may get the "Kansas City job."

The principal of our public school went home to spend Thanksgiving day with his people, and returned Sunday and preached for us, Bro. Harless being absent. Divine services were held also at night by Mr. Russell of Bellevue, who preached a remarkably good sermon.

Mr. Duty's sermon on "The Lord's Prayer" was excellent last Sunday.

Mr. Chas. Reno has returned home, after an absence of several months.

The writer is so situated that he can not write regularly and many things occur without his knowledge.

We are glad to see a communication from "Paddy." Come again, "Paddy."

The following is the monthly report of our public school: The whole number of days attended by all pupils, 2335; average number of days' attendance, per pupil, 14; average number of pupils attending daily, 17 3/5.

Dec. 2, 1894. D. S. KOLAS.

New Coxey.

Ed. Register.—Please publish the following:

Situated in the roughs of the West End, is a mansion lately known as "New Coxey's Fort." Within this fort dwells a small and cunning Coxey's troop. The volunteers passing can hear the shouts of the band and see Coxey, drilling his followers in the way of untruthfulness.

A short time ago Coxey's troops made a raid on the school which is but a few rods from the fort. They, seeing no prospect of gains, soon returned to the fort and related their disappointment. This aroused Coxey, and soon the school was astonished by his appearance. Before the school he stood with teeth clattering and trembling from head to foot. Still trembling, he is seated without a word, and awaits the dismissing of the school. He is asked to speak. Nothing to say. Dismissed; scholars and teacher pass out. He calls one scholar aside but receives no satisfaction.

A few days later we saw Coxey mounted on his white horse on his way to court. He goes before the Grand Jury and swears that his troops have been cruelly treated by the school. Soon his troops are seen on their way to court to testify also. They enter and swear. Now is the time for the raid on the treasury. They march in and receive a large sum for the afternoon's teaching. With the money they buy their winter supply of clothes. Coxey is now satisfied, and returns to his fort and relates the truthfulness of his troops. Shall we say hurrah for Coxey? The school says not.

S. E. M. T. A.

On the 20th day of December, 1877, the Southeast Mo. Teachers' Association convened at Piedmont, and continued in session until the evening of the 28th. At this the first session, there were 70 members enrolled. The meeting was one of the most enthusiastic the writer has attended. It is to the credit of Southeast Missouri that she took the lead in organizing District Associations. Is she still in the lead?

The nineteenth session will be held at Piedmont, December 26, 27, and 28, next. The local committee of arrangements, Prof. H. L. Daniels, J. H. Lucy, and E. L. Hume, are making every preparation to give us a hearty welcome, and make our stay pleasant and profitable. Piedmont never does things by halves. She will entertain us royally, as she has always done. The programme is nearly ready for the printer. Each one given a leading place on it, was consulted about his part, and his consent thereto secured before his name was used. The railroad will give the usual reduced rates. It is hoped that the Association will be well attended by teachers, school officers, and friends of education—and, if it has any enemies, by them also. Every body is welcome, and all interested parties are urged to attend.

NELSON B. HENRY, Pres't. Caledonia, Mo., Nov. 30, 1894.

Experience and money cannot improve Dr. SWARTZ'S FAMILY CURE, because it radically cures Dyspepsia, Liver complaint and Kidney difficulty. Sold at Crisp's drug store.

Bishop Hennessy's Silver Jubilee.

The silver jubilee of the Rt. Rev. John J. Hennessy, bishop of Wichita, was celebrated at Wichita, Kansas, Wednesday, November 28th, with much pomp and rejoicing among Catholics generally. Large numbers of visiting priests and prelates assisted in the ceremonies and participated in the festivities which marked the occasion. Bishop Dunn of Dallas, Tex., preached the pontifical high mass, and Bishop Bonacum of Lincoln, Nebraska, assisted in the celebration. A telegram of congratulation from Pope Leo read as follows:

"To the Rt. Rev. John J. Hennessy: The holy friar has commissioned me to send his most cordial congratulations and wishes to you and your guests and the people committed to your charge."

D. J. O'CONNELL, Rector of American college at Rome."

A purse of $1,000 was offered to Bishop Hennessy, but he declined to accept it, and recommended that the money be distributed among the poor. In the afternoon a grand banquet was given in the Bishop's honor.

If you are anxious to find the most reliable blood-purifier, read in Ayer's Almanac the testimonials of those who have been cured of such terrible disease as catarrh, rheumatism, and scrofula, by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Then govern yourself accordingly.

"Democrat" Again.

Ed. Register.—You call me a Gold Democrat. I might be one, if I had possession of a large quantity of this so much desired stuff, but I am a poor man, I call myself a Gold and Silver Democrat, and am very sorry that but so small quantities of silver are rolling towards me. I did not intend to have public arguing by my "dropping a few lines to you," and I confess at once, that I could not follow with the pen. I took them to be an individual criticism only after the lost battle. As to my view of the silver question, I know, I cannot convince you, and I hardly believe you will convert me, although we both stand shoulder to shoulder with the great principles of Democracy. Now I hold the free minting of silver is not exactly a principle of this party at large; it is in my view a temporary issue, originated by a lucky rich silvermine shareholder, who earnestly desired that what would be good for him would be good for everybody else. We had believers in this doctrine, as well as the inventor of the populist doctrine with his demand for thousands of millions paper dollars, or General Coxey for assistance of every idler in work and money from the Government, and the consequence was the passage of the Bland bill, which was an act of limited silver. Hence the Sherman bill with a superabundance of bar silver, and both bills diminished our gold reserve. The platform of the Democratic party, if I am right, says nothing of free-minting of silver, but that the money, the Government issues, gold, silver and paper, must always be of the like value and of equal buying power, and the present acknowledged value measure is gold. If gold is only the established standard of Rothschilds and the money barons of Europe and America, that they are backed by nearly all civilized nations, is a fact which cannot be denied, and facts must be accounted for. Even the Latin Union of States, with their only silver standard, have ceased, and greatly limited the minting of silver coins and make preparations to adopt the gold standard. Free-minting of silver will bring our country in face of our very small gold reserve to the single silver standard at once, our small gold treasury would be emptied in less than no time and the passage of such bills, will set us with our standard money in opposition to the other nations, and they will take our minted silver for the market value of the gold standard only, not at its stamped face value, to be saved and stored by them for the purpose to pay a debt to us with our own money. This would be regress instead of progress. Our country, as good and immensely rich as it is, is the pride of all its citizens, is not independent in itself. We, the citizens, must consider the laws and ruling usages of the other nations, and in the most important question of state welfare, the money question, we must govern ourselves accordingly. The repeal of the Sherman and Bland bills by our party was, in my individual opinion, the greatest blessing for our country, avoiding financial crashes and panics, worse than we ever have had them. China walls have fallen, or will fall in a short time. They have enclosed and shut out a population according to the most intelligent and industrious at a time when from the now most civilized white race nothing could be said. The Chinese have the silver standard, too, although that is of no interest to us at present. In my opinion, the free-minting of silver would be for our country like the China wall; we would be among ourselves, how long and with what sacrifice I am unable to say.

The direct question you request me to answer, I will try to answer as well as I am able and understand it. Not being a Goldbug I have not been let into the secret of State financing. In 1873 the German Empire, next to England, which had the gold standard always, the best customer and business friend to our country, adopted the gold standard, although you see daily just like here, more silver than gold circulating; and our finance authorities perhaps calculated it would be wise to conform with these best customers in this question of importance, and may be to prevent the demonetization of Gold, if silver was 3 per cent. premium over gold. I even admit that gold could be a fiat money standard if there was but one creditor to present all paper and silver obligations for liquidation; but as there are millions of creditors, such accident never can happen, and gold will retain its capacity ity as the most precious metal and value measure standard. If we can buy to-day everywhere as much of any staple article for an ounce of silver as we could in 1873, then I cannot see how silver is demonetized; that is, how minted silver lost its capacity in value measure, equal with gold, and it never will lose this capacity; everyone everywhere will gladly take it, but only as long as Uncle Sam is able to exchange on demand any amount presented to him for gold. As soon as his ability is doubted, the minted silver depreciates from its stamped face to its metal weight value—first in commerce with the other nations, then in our own country—and the natural consequences of such a state in money matters I have hinted at. Maybe it is only a theoretic view; practical it may be different. At any rate, silver money will never be refused by A DEMOCRAT.

Already the clans are gathering for the fray in 1896, and 1895 will be full of interesting events. The skirmish lines will be thrown out, the maneuvering done and the plans of campaign arranged for the great contest in '96. The remaining short session of the Democratic Congress, to be followed shortly by a Republican Congress with a Democrat in the Presidential chair will be productive of events of incalculable interest. In fact, more political history will be constructed during 1895 than in any year since the foundation of the Government, and a man without a newspaper will be like a useless lump in the movements of public opinion. You can get three new subscribers for the REPUBLIC by a few minutes' effort. Remember in the REPUBLIC subscribers get a paper twice-a-week, for the price of a weekly—only $1.00 a year.
